

In this reading: Individual choice, Karmic speed up, DO NO HARM, perception

Question #1: Before we start, is there anything in general you would like to tell us?

Light Beings: It is a very, very chaotic time for most of you; for the entities on the planet at this time, for many reasons. It has been a culmination of energies that have been gathering for several centuries, really, and the momentum has gained tremendously just in the last 6 to 7 years.

And so you are seeing many changes in the earth's plane, you're seeing a lot of weather disturbances that are due to these changes, and you're also seeing many diseases that seem to be associated with the mind such as your Alzheimer's, your autism and many, many variations of the nervous system issues, and depression. And a lot of that has also to do with the increased vibrational energies that are creating a, should we say, disturbance in the structure of the human entity. You will also notice that many of the domestic animals are now getting diseases that were, before, strictly a human element, and now it is becoming a part of your domestic animals. And that, also, has to do with the changes of the environment, and the changes in the chaotic energies that are surrounding most entities at this time.

The reason for the chaos is two- fold. There is a gathering of – and we have talked about this in the past – a gathering of the dark versus the light energies. And that is creating a much more clear path that one must take. One can no longer straddle both sides, but must make a decision to be of the light or of the dark. And so you're going to see pockets around your planet where there's going to be great upheaval because of these choices that must be made.

There is a – again, this is difficult for us to explain because it is on an energetic level, and so therefore it is not something that can clearly be seen – but there is an energy that is now demanding, so-to-speak, that each individual be responsible for their choices, and they will be able to see much quicker how those choices are going to manifest in their life, and in their environment. In the past, what you call Karma, could take several lifetimes to complete something that needed to be adjusted or balanced. Now it can transpire in a matter of days or hours. So you will notice that when you have a thought it does not take but a very small amount of your earth time for that thought to manifest in a form.

So it is going to be critical that if one wants to avoid a very chaotic existence, one must be clear in their choices and have the ability to separate from patterns that they have, perhaps, lived many lifetimes, when a different choice needs to be made.

So there are going to be a lot of changes in relationships, jobs, economics, governments, that couldn't have been made even 20, 30 earth years ago. You are going to see choices made and events happening that will begin to balance many things that have been hidden and out of balance in the past.

So the times will seem to be very chaotic, but in reality what is happening is those things that are not built on a foundation that is solid will begin to crumble. Those things that are not built of an ethical base will not survive. And so you're going to see many, many destructions before there will be a clear understanding of what needs to happen for your earth plane to see the kind of life experiences and see the kind of existences that are possible in a very positive way. And there will be pockets that will be not positive at all. So there will be much light and much dark.

Q2: You say institutions or societies will crumble or fall if they don't have an 'ethical' base. What do you mean by ethical base?

LBs: That that does no harm.

Q3: That that does no harm.....period?

LBs: That is correct.

Q4: So people will always be asking themselves what are the consequences of their behavior or actions on others, things, as well as themselves?

LBs: That is correct, and there is no limitation to "do no harm".

Q5: Of course, people then will bicker like crazy over the ideas and definitions of what 'harm' means?

LBs: It is not a difficult choice to see what could be of harm if one is willing to be, should we say, not influenced by the patterns they have lived by for, perhaps, many, many centuries, but are willing to step out of those patterns and recognize that their choice is either for the good of the planet and for the good of any entity on the planet, or it is not.

Q6: The context in which people consider themselves safe and unharmed has a lot to do with the prevailing notions of property rights; people consider property to be extensions of themselves as individuals, yet it is the social orders which define legally this important idea Are you talking about societies reexamining its concepts of property rights , per se?

LB: That's one small piece of it.

Q7: What other pieces might societies be looking at?

LBs: Everything from the way food is now being developed, the way that medicines are now being developed, the way that funds are being amassed, or not amassed, the way that beliefs are forced upon others, and you could perhaps go on and list for the next hour the kinds of atrocities, and what do not seem like atrocities – which when examined, are – that one entity prevails on another, or one group prevails on another group.

So it is now time for each entity to look within their own being to determine choices and to recognize that many choices are made due to cultural beliefs that may hold no real validity any longer.

Q8: Ok, so, any dogma, wherever it comes from, be it cultural or religious?

LBs: That is correct.

Q9: The lies we tell ourselves and tell each other.

LBs: That is correct.

Q10: It's not so much "karma" anymore, because the consequences of our choices are now very rapidly appearing and coming back to us. Is that correct?

LBs: Karma has no time element, but many times it would take several lifetimes for someone to balance out a good or a bad deed, or a negative or a positive, or a dark or a light. Now, that is not how you experience it. It can be in moments, hours or days instead of lifetimes.

Q11: The opportunity to balance?

LBs: That is correct. It is still karma, as you would call that balancing, but the balancing will be in a much quicker way.

Q12: Does that have anything to do with the fact that society is more mobile and communicates much more quickly with each other so therefore the opportunities for that interaction between people is more rapid, or does it have to do with universe at large and its increasing vibration?

LBs: It is the vibrational shifts that are happening.

Q13: You said balance the light as well as the darkness. If someone is more light than dark are they going to have to experience dark so will understand how to work on this dense planet?

LBs: It is not necessary for one to experience dark. That is not necessary, but many times to understand the fullness and expansion that entities are exposed to, one will step into the dark, but not necessarily to remain there.

Q14: So there is hope for those that see the chaos around them in knowing there is a purpose and method, a reason underlying all of the chaos; there is opportunity and choice.

LBs: Yes, and do remember, as we have told you many times, what you experience is perception, and so your perception of whether it is chaos, or whether it is simply a rebuilding or a restructuring is your choice.

Q15: People can come from fear or find a more balanced viewpoint?

LBs: That is correct.

Q16: Are some people less inclined to see a balanced viewpoint than those that might be more of a conceptual nature?

LBs: It has more to do with one's inner growth, the ability to expand one's self.

Q17: [question unclear]

LBs: The social order moves in the direction of the masses and their choices, but an individual can make a choice and it will ripple out to all they connect with. And so it is becoming much more important for an individual now to understand the power of their choices.

Q18: Is there any consciousness behind why a species of animal looks like they do? Some appear to me to be more artsy than trying to blend in with their environment.

LBs: There is more of a blending with the environment that creates the different colors and structures of the animal world. It is much the same as the human developed; a lion, a toad, or a cat have all developed, according to their environment and their physical needs. And so if you were able to go back to where they originally evolved from other forms you would find that the environment played an enormous part in coloration and development of their bodies.

Q19: I saw a TV documentary the other day where scientists had discovered thriving life forms in an active volcanic chimney deep underwater in the ocean where absolutely no sunlight reached; unique life forms found nowhere else on earth...And I wondered how it could evolve as such, and in only within the close vicinity of the chimneys and so quickly (since the volcanoes were not eons old). It just "showed up" there and "evolved", huh?

LBs: Correct, and there is an intelligence that is far, far expanded into.....there's no way for you, as an entity, to understand or experience that expansion of that intelligence, but it is a unified energy that has created every entity that exists on your planet in a way that the existence of each individual entity is perfect for its survival.

Q20: It fits in with everything around it.

LBs: Correct.

Q21: Hopefully with some sort of balance that is dynamic at the same time?

LBs: Correct.
