

Q: Is there anything you would like to tell the general population at this time about the craziness that is occurring all around?

LBs: As you are well aware, your planet is in a lot of chaos in multiple areas, and so you cannot concentrate on one area and understand what is happening because it is world-wide. And in that context, you need to understand there is an evolutionary change that is taking place due to your technology advances, but also due to the division of those that understand, and have an in-depth knowledge, of.....how can we explain this?.....

There is a group of people that has the understanding, and in-depth knowledge, of where they want to go in leading the people in the direction they want them to go. And so a lot of what is transpiring is taking place because of this group of people that meet behind the scenes and make the decisions. So it's not nearly as you might want to think it is, but much of what is happening is not accidental.

And so, that is part of what is creating the chaos, because there are two mind sets, so-to-speak, on your planet. One is that of the curiosity seeker, those that are constantly thinking and analyzing and trying to understand. And then, there are those that simply want to, should we say, exist without thinking, and those are the ones that are allowing a lot of the issues to take place that are now transpiring and in many ways creating a suppression. It is greater than just government action, because it is going on in many areas. It is going on in your medical world, it is going on in your government; it is in the technology field. In every field there are two groups of people — those that have an understanding and have the ability to carry those they're involved with in a direction that is for the betterment of mankind, and those, in every group, that recognize they need power, and that if they behave in a certain way, those that do not have curiosity or the need to understand will follow them, and there are many, many more of those, than those that think about things that are developing around them, instead of just following. Do you understand?

Q: Well, there is the old cliché about sheeple, and then again, about the people who are more aware, and choose to be more in control of their lives. Is that what you are referring to?

LBs: That is correct, but unfortunately you have many more that are followers.

Q: So this is the reason for the chaos? That people aren't taking enough responsibility in thinking and acting in concert together; waking up? Is that it?

LBs: And allowing those that need the power to assume the power without any real struggle. And that's what's happened in your government [USA]. In your government you have many that need power, want power, and will do anything to maintain power, from your President to many, many of those that serve in the top positions in your government. Power is essential to them. And power equates money, as far as they are concerned.

They recognize that if they can suppress, or not give the knowledge that needs to be given, they will be able to control and direct things the way they want them to go.

Q: Well, yeah, people say that the press is owned and controlled by private interests and it is biased and slanted. Is that what you're talking about? I mean, people just take that for granted.

LBs: People do not take that for granted; the masses do not take that for granted.

Q: They are easily led around.

LBs: Correct, where you have what you call democracy, which is not really a true democracy. But in other countries it's even more so, because there the power has always been more directed from a small group, and the masses simply have to follow and have no choice.

Q: So the crisis on the planet today, the chaos, is that there is too much authoritarianism, and too much sheeplism, huh?

LBs: That is it, basically put in a very simple way, but yes. And the only real hope for your country is for those that have the ability, even at what you would call your grass roots, to make a difference, and to help others understand and wake up to the idea that they have a responsibility.....

Q: To think for themselves.....

LBs: Correct.

Q: .....question authority, and act on it.

LBs: Correct. And not be swayed by rhetoric. It's in your religions, it's in your technology, it's in your medical world, it's in your government.

Q: Dogma is everywhere.

LBs: That is correct. If you want to take one small example, when your doctors go through medical school, they are literally brainwashed by your pharmaceutical companies, and so, they quit trying to "think through", because the easier way is to simply acquiesce. And what happens in all of the different groups is that people have lives that they must live on a daily basis, and so they start struggling to make their own life work, and they do not have the time, energy, or even the foresight, to fight the system.

Q: Is this because nothing is at a community level anymore and everything is so broad-based?

LBs: That is correct, and that is your answer. That is exactly what must take place, from your grass roots level, where a group understands the need, and then helps to educate and awaken those—as you call them—sheeple. And once that information can be understood, and more and more people begin to think through issues, instead of accepting what their —as you say — authoritarians tell them, then you will begin to see some massive movement towards an improved society.

Q: So there is a lot of common sense that is not being discussed simply because it is against the interest of the ruling powers?

LBs: There are many that could contribute to a much better way of living.

Q: The laws get in the way as well as the cultures.

LBs: That is correct.

When your country was first formed [USA], you had a lot of free thinkers who understood the need for a type of government, but it was not to be a ruling government in the way that it is today; it was a government that would be for the people, and the ones that were in the power at that time were no more than the people they were working for, so there had not been that hierarchy yet.

Q: You're talking about before the Constitution?

LBs: Correct. And as the Constitution was being formed, there were many deep thinkers in that particular era, and they worked together to form something that could have been a very beautiful way for the population to live. But as people began to obtain monetary means and more power through those monetary means, it became much more one-sided, so to speak, out of balance.

So in answer to what you're asking, the real answer will be with smaller groups that bring back the free thinking that was originally part of your Constitution, part of your country's original formation.

Q: Small groups, free thinking, freedom of action at a local level.

LBs: Correct, and they can make huge changes in the social order if that is allowed to happen.

Q: Because they are not subject to the consequences of a larger system?

LBs: Correct. It can start in very small areas.

There is a lot of unrest in your country, a lot of unrest across the globe, and many thinkers, many that are more aware recognize what the need is, but so far there have not been many good models, but they will begin to develop, small models.

It must first start with your social order, the needs of the people. In other words, those thinkers, those aware, must understand the needs of the people and why those needs have not been met.

And they need to do it in very small groups in the beginning because when groups are too large there are too many dissenting ideas.

Q: It's hard to get something focused on and going.

LBs: Correct. So if they start small and if they are successful, it can be duplicated, and duplicated until you have what they call the quantum leap.

And it would require looking at every single area of the supposed government, in that vicinity that would be ruling the people at this time, and looking at what could be changed within the law, through work and through understanding of how each area was affecting the individual population, and what needs were being met and what needs were not being met.

And it must begin the education. You see, in your reality, your population is less educated than they were 50 years ago. They may be more book-learned, but they are less educated in how to really survive; how to live in a way that is more workable and has more satisfaction. Even though the technology was not there, there was a certain satisfaction in having the security of knowing how to do many things that worked with survival.

Q: Just knowing how to take care of yourself; not having to go buy everything at Walmart....

LBs: Correct

Q: No one does anything else for themselves anymore other than work as a part of a machine.

LBs: And that does not create satisfaction.

Q: It creates fear...

LBs: Yes, because many feel the lack. They feel they have no control.

Q: They don't feel any control unless they are owners.

LBs: And owners are constantly fearful of the loss.

© 2017 Joyce B. Cary. All rights reserved, except this format of the Light Beings' 5-15-17 channel may be downloaded from www.askthelightbeings.com for personal use or sharing so long as this notice is attached. Permission is needed for any other reproduction or commercial use.